

What are the priorities in your business? Do you put God first, people second, and profits third?

There are thousands of business owners who, when asked, will proclaim to be Christians. But too many hit the office on Monday morning, putting their religion away until the next Sunday. Are you one of those? It doesn't mean you don't want to practice your Christianity in the workplace. Perhaps it just means you haven't learned how. Perhaps it means you're worried about what it means legally if you wear your religion on your sleeve. This book was written for you.

This book is about those business owners who not only claim verbally to be Christians but who visibly practice Christianity in the day-to-day operations of their businesses. They are those who have integrated their belief system into all parts of their lives, which includes work.

"I wonder what would happen if our entire business community lived and embraced God People Money—Proven Ideas to Translate Your Faith Into the Workplace? This book and its principles are a must read and a must do!"

—Tommy Spaulding; author of the New York Times bestseller, It's Not Just Who You Know
